

There are many possible propositions for this space that would be an improvement upon its current (mis)use.

Considering the locale, a residential proposal would seem fitting, although the development would be constrained by the relatively petite size of the lot.

A public space in the form of a children's park or a memorial with benches might be more suited. Using the space in this way could create a bond between the community and hospital (who would ostensibly fund such an undertaking).

SECTION THROUGH UNUSED GREEN SPACE